

Southeastern Idaho Public Health

For Immediate Release

Contact: Tracy McCulloch

February 1, 2017

239-5250

FREE HPV Immunization clinic to be held at Southeastern Idaho Public Health

On Thursday, February 9th, Southeastern Idaho Public Health offices will host a FREE HPV Immunization Clinic for children and young adults, ages 11-26. The HPV vaccine is a cancer prevention vaccine for both girls and boys. Starting the HPV Vaccine series at age 11 or 12 is ideal however teens and young adults 13 – 26 years of age can still get the vaccine for future cancer prevention. This FREE HPV Vaccine clinic on February 9th is your opportunity to protect your child against HPV related cancers. Schedule your appointment today!

Please bring your immunization record and proof of insurance with you. Private insurance & Medicaid will be billed. There will be no out of pocket expenses for participants.

For more information or to schedule an appointment, contact Southeastern Idaho Public Health at 785-2160 or visit www.siphidaho.org. To become a fan of Southeastern Idaho Public Health, go to www.facebook.com/siphidaho.